NOTES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Genealogy reference collection is now at Northeast Branch

Our Genealogy Resources Committee members have been putting in lots of volunteer hours at the Northeast Branch Library helping library staff get the genealogy reference collection shelved and ready for use. The collection takes up nearly 900 linear feet of shelving. We are now doing a book by book audit of the genealogy reference collection. The current audit (the last audit was in 2006) is purely a committee volunteer effort and it should be finished during the first week of February. Doing a book by book audit to the non-circulating genealogy reference collection will give the genealogy resources committee an accurate list of books on the shelves at Northeast Branch. In the near term the APL cataloging staff will take the audit results and update the APL catalogue database. Over the long term a more accurate listing of the genealogy collection in the APL catalogue will aid collection development, and help in planning the move into the new library in 2017.

The West Police Service Center Community Room

Our Society is fortunate to be holding our monthly meetings in a modern facility. Our first meeting in the new location took place on Tuesday, 13 January. The APD West District Deputy Chief is Jeff Matthews. If you meet him out and about town, do mention how much our Society appreciates meeting in the Community Room at his Service Center. The West Police Service Center is in City Council District Four, and the Council Member for District four is Kathryn Wilemon. So, if you meet Ms.

Wilemon out and about town, please mention how much the Society appreciates being able to hold our meetings in one of the city community rooms.

The Arlington Historical Society

A few weeks ago I met with Geraldine Mills, President, Arlington Historical Society. If your family history and genealogy efforts are local, you are probably familiar with the AHS and likely are a member of both the AGS and the AHS. Needless to say the folks at the AHS work hard to preserve, protect and exhibit the diverse and rich history of Arlington. One of the topics Geraldine and I talked about is sharing information from local sources. Some of the family history articles you read in this newsletter (the AHS also publishes a newsletter) are taken and re-published from local sources such as newspaper archives or personal papers now held by the AHS or AGS. To help you, the reader or the researcher, better record or locate original sources, the editors for both society newsletters will acknowledge borrowed or quoted material with appropriate references.

A South Texas Internment Camp for German-American Citizens during World War II

The hardships endured by Japanese-Americans who suffered forced relocation and incarceration during World War II are well documented and well-known. The rationale is that these Americans of Japanese ancestry might have been spies. However, Japan was not the only nation at war with the United States and not the only nation to have sent emigrants to the United States.

Americans of German descent were also sent to internment camps. One thing I found interesting is that many of the detainees were pawns traded for "more important"
Americans held behind enemy lines during and after the war.

JANUARY AGS MEETING

Richard Selcer on "The Panther Legend of Fort Worth."

TERMS FOUND IN LAND RECORDS

Appurtenances: The right to buildings or other items attached to or situated on the property or thing being sold, which is considered incidental to the principal property for purposes of title or inheritance.

Bounty Land: Land granted to a person as compensation for military service.

Charter: Legal document granting right of ownership and subsequent sale, lease, grant or rent of land.

Convey/conveyance: The act of transferring legal title of property from one person to another.

Deed of Trust: A mortgage or lease; also called a security deed.

Entrymen: First person to enter on and apply for a land patent or deed for a particular plot of land from the US Land Office.

Escheat: Land ownership reverting to the government or the estate due to lack of heirs.

Heirship petition: A legal document to establish the right to inherit from the estate of a deceased

Metes and Bounds: A system or method of describing land, which typically uses physical features of the local geography, along with directions and distances, to define and describe the boundaries of a parcel of land. Descriptions are in a running prose style, working around the parcel in sequence, from a point of beginning and returning back to the same point.

Quitclaim Deed: A deed in which the seller gives up any claim to rights on the property in question, but doesn't guarantee the title to the property is clear from any other claims. This is usually done when there is some question as to whether any other individual may have a claim (a missing heir, for example), or in the case of a name change. Quitclaim deeds may also be used in cases where there is no will; all surviving heirs who might have a legal interest in the land owned by the deceased sign a quitclaim deed, giving up any interest they might have in the property. A quitclaim deed may also be used when a warranty deed needs a correction, such as correcting a spelling error of a name.

Sheriff's sale: Public Auction of a borrower's assets seized in a Foreclosure order obtained from a court, and carried out by a sheriff or other court.

Trust Deed (also called a deed of trust or sometimes a Security Deed):

A document in which a specific financial interest in the title to a property is transferred to a trustee to be held as security for a loan between two other parties. Used in some states (instead of mortgages) to document the financing of real estate purchases. When the loan is fully paid, the title is transferred to the borrower; if the borrower defaults on the loan, the trustee may foreclose on the debt and transfer title to the lender or sell the property to pay the lender from the proceeds of the sale.

Widow's Examination: Required in many jurisdictions until the early 1900s. A wife was entitled to "widow's rights" or "dower rights" (typically one-third) of her husband's property -- although she often could not directly control or sell it in her own right. Before he could sell the property, she was required to sign an independent statement that she was aware he was selling the property and she was therefore losing her dower rights. If she did not sign, the property could not be sold.

DOLLARHIDE GENEALOGY RULES

An 1850 census record showing all 12 children in a family proves only that your ancestors did not believe in birth control.

Proposed Elimination of the Genealogy Department at Indiana State Library

This could be a huge loss to genealogists: the new Indiana state budget bill proposes a 24% cut in funding to the Indiana State Library. This proposal would eliminate the Genealogy Department, as well as reduce the staff at ISL by 10%. The Indiana Genealogical Society has posted information about this on their blog, and includes links to an analysis by the State Librarian, the contact info for the House Ways and Means Committee, and committee chair Rep. Timothy Brown. You can read more about the proposal at:

Another great resource is now available online: Records from the Archdiocese of Louisiana and the Floridas – 1576-1803.

The database contains two entries for each record: (1.) an image of the original handwritten record in French and (2.) an image of an accompanying 3" by 5" index card that was created some years ago.

In addition to the images of original records, a lengthy and detailed history of the records and detailed explanations of the records are also included. For more information or to view the records, go to

LODGE'S TRIBUTE.

Arlington's new municipal auditorium was the scene Tuesday night of a memorial service, under the auspices of the local Odd Fellows Lodge, which paid tribute to the memory of two deceased brethren, J. C. Young and Lee Gibbins, attended by a large number of relatives and friends. At the conclusion of memorial services, a program was given, participated in by a delegation from Waxahachie Lodge No. 80, of which "Matt" Christopher had been a member for more than 26 years. He was given a gold medal signifying this distinction.

Rev. S. M. Bennett, pastor of Arlington Presbyterian Church, opened memorial services with invocation, and was the principal speaker. He exhorted his listeners to endeavor to do as Bro. Young and Gibbins had done, to live according to the principles of Oddfellowship, that of "Friendship, Love and Truth." "May the memory of these deceased brethren live in our minds," he said, "and may we all be comrades in good doing."

Mr. Barnes, of Waxahachie Lodge No. 80 presented the 25-year medal to Mr. Christopher, who joined that order Feb. 13, 1903. Mr. Barnes, in his speech of presentation, outlined the growth of Oddfellowship since its birth 110 years ago. He told of its principles and accomplishments and bade his honored brother to continue to exemplify the principles of the order.

The Dallas Railway quartette sang "Kneel at The Cross," and "At Sunset I'm Going Home."

Rev. L. A. Herrin, Baptist minister, responded to Mr. Barnes' address on behalf of Mr. Christopher. "Friendship has taken them out of the gutter and made them real men," he said. In speaking of the work of the Order among orphans, widows and the poor, he said, "On account of the failure of the churches to do what they should have done, the fraternal orders are taking charge of the moral life of the people." He praised the work of the Odd Fellows Orphans' Home at Corsicana, his home town.

A piano selection was rendered "Do You Believe in Fairies?" by Miss Alene Langston, which was followed by a song by Frances Hill, accompanied on the piano by Miss Cleo Bearden. Joe Langram with the banjo and Chas. Nobles with the mandolin gave three popular renditions.

Tarrant County Odd Fellows band, directed by Frank Dinkins, was seated on the rostrum and played at intervals throughout the program.

Dallas is Besieged With Yo-Yo Craze, Whatever That Is

Dallas, June 13. – Dallas has the yo-yo craze.

Be it disease, hobby, or simply fad, every one has caught it. How to stop it, no one knows.

More contagious than influenza, the yo-yo habit spread from Dallas citizens to 10,000 Rotarian convention guests, their wives, and children. Scarcely a visitor left the city without at least one or two of the little gems in his pocket.

What is the yo-yo? It is a toy, something like a top. Only it never leaves the string. The little wooden disc at the end climbs back up the string automatically when thrown or dropped with proper precision.

The thrill of throwing out the little disc and sensing it climb back up the string dexteriously has put the city agog.

Bell boys forget their tips to yo-yo. Guests forget to pay them. News boys yo-yo instead of sell papers. Street cars are alive with the toys shooting out in all directions. School teachers have desk drawers full of them. Dances and club meetings have turned into yo-yo tournaments.

From whence came this freak of man's construction? It was invented, so salesmen say, by Pedro Flores, bus boy in a hotel at Santa Barbara, California. Pedro improved on an idea brought from his native country, the Philippines, and whittled out the toys for his own amusement. Hotel guests were fascinated.

Soon there was a demand for the home-made toys. Pedro bought a wood lathe to hasten their construction. Now the former bus boy operates two factories in Los Angeles which are still unable to supply the demand. As yet, it has been introduced in few places.

Pedro discovered he was the boy Thomas Edison had sought.

Meanwhile, the 25 cent toy began to be elaborated upon. Some were inlaid with costly mother of pearl.

Fascinated by the freak toy which captured adult and child alike, persons have begun to wonder if the craze will continue to spread. An international convention helped it along. More popular here than chewing gum, summer vacations, or Lindbergh, the yo-yo may be in early stages of subduing the world.

Boy Slayer, 6, Court Problem

(picture of boy)

Here is Carl Mahan, 6-year-old slayer of his chum, Cecil Van Hoose, at Paintsville, Ky., and whose case gave the local court authorities a problem. Carl was found guilty and sentenced to the reformatory for 15 years by a county judge. Then a circuit judge set aside the decision and sent Carl home. The boy shot his playmate after they had quarreled over a piece of scrap iron. Juvenile experts from Cincinnati examined the boy and said he showed no criminal tendencies.
