Hispanic Legacy: Embracing Our Native American Heritage

Chief Rufus Davis has served as the Tribal Chief of the Adai Caddo Nation in Robeline, Louisiana for over 20 years. He has been instrumental in bringing awareness to the many different Native Indian Tribes and cultures of the Americas. The Adai Caddo Indian Nation has a vast presence in American History but limited information is recorded about the Nation's history, culture, and traditions. By sharing his tribal history with historical and genealogical organizations, Chief Davis hopes to promote the history of Native Americans including special programs for student and senior citizen groups.
